

VOLUME LIII.

HAS ROOSEVELT LOST HIS LIFE?

RUMOR WAS CURRENT IN WASH-INGTON AND NEW YORK
THIS MORNING.

NOT AN AUTHENTIC REPORT

State Department at Washington Had Not Heard of It—No Report
From President's Party Received.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Washington, D. C., Nov. 5.—A rumor that President Theodore Roosevelt had been killed in Africa was about in Washington this morning but a diligent search failed to discover the slightest foundation for it.

No Word.
The state department which was the most likely to be notified by its consular representatives in Africa, had received no such news, nor has a word come from the Associated Press correspondent who is accompanying the Roosevelt party.

Still Vague.
New York, Nov. 5.—The reports today that President Roosevelt had lost his life while hunting in Africa are not credited by close friends of the former president nor could the reports be traced to any authentic source.

Not Possible.
London, Nov. 5.—The East African department of the colonial office heard nothing of any accident to Roosevelt.
The officials state it is inconceivable that anything serious could have happened to him and the fact not have been reported by the governor to the colonial office.

WOLF HOWL GOES UP FROM BADGER CAMP

Reports From Madison Claim That Varsity Team Is Way Behind In Training and Condition.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Madison, Wis., Nov. 5.—Developments of the past week have eliminated the last vestige of reasonable expectation that the University of Wisconsin football team will be able to withstand the rushes of the University of Minnesota players in the big game here Saturday, Nov. 13. A week ago a sort of desperate confidence was felt that the team would be driven into a state of perfected training in time for the Minnesota game, and that with the benefit of the coaches having seen the enemy in action at its best against Chicago, Wisconsin might have a good show of winning. But now the heart of the Badger fan sickens in contemplation of the disaster which it is felt Dr.
Harry Williams is bringing from the north.

The Badger players are lamentably behind in training, in wretched physical condition and one of the old Wisconsin stars who helped coach the only this week declared of a recent evening: "The boys are within ten days of the Minnesota game, but they have not yet learned the rudiments of the game. Worse than that, the physical condition of half of them forbids that they be given the hard training work that is necessary to bring them around in the short time remaining. They have been drilled all season in fancy formations and deceptive stunts, but they are shamefully short of football for the Laverne, Indiana and Northwestern games representing practically all the football our boys have had this year. Part of the blame rest with the foul restraint that forbids a training table."

A most interesting element of the situation here is the fact that a conviction has become established that Coach Williams of Minnesota has caught the football fraternity feeling that he alone of all the coaches responsible for the failure of the team to allow his soldier boys to be turned in chasing the rainbow of "new style football" for he demonstrated a week ago that the new style idea was not with the boys, but with the coaches, and that the boys were willing to play the old style game, and that the coaches were dependent upon the tactics chosen to win the game. Ten days ago the three trials allowed. Ten days ago people were wondering whether Coach Williams and Minnesota would be able to come up to the scratch with the new game. Right now half a dozen regular and volunteer coaches at Madison are trying to get back to the old game with a defense strong enough to withstand the terrible assaults of the Minnesota old style football. Nor is there much hope that they will succeed.

Some short end Wisconsin money was offered for wages against Minnesota a few days ago, the proposed scale being ten to eight. There is no more of it in sight, and if any considerable amount is placed on the badgers to win it will be at longer prices. Minnesota backers giving two or three to one. It was thought that Wisconsin's line would hold better against the Minnesota rushes than the Chicago line so that Wisconsin could get open plays to working where Chicago failed. Some consideration was had of the crippled condition of Captain Page of Chicago in the Minnesota game as accounting for the failure of the Maroons. Press dispatches then were fresh in mind to the effect that Anderson had worked wonderfully, had in fact "arrived" in the Wisconsin-Northwestern game, when he played left end for the badgers, but it was developed that Anderson was not such a wonder in that contest; that he showed inability in open field running only when a clear field lay before him; that he made a disgusting fumble near the Wisconsin goal line that resulted in a touchdown by Northwestern; that his head was not reliable, but he kicked well. The result of these developments was that Anderson was never more placed at end, but Fack, a man of some remote experience in end, was sent there and will doubtless hold that place the remainder of the season. It was readily apparent to the coaches that Anderson could not be relied upon to box the Minnesota tackle. His speed and his ability at punting, however, particularly in the absence of a more desirable man, caused him to be placed at right halfback. Captain Wiley has proved a disappointment at punting, because he is so slow in getting his kicks away.

On this account he has to fall back a full fifteen yards, and even at that has been blocked occasionally, or has been so nearly blocked that the hurried kick was weak and inaccurate.
This, together with Wiley's lame knee, caused the coaches to retain Anderson.

Couch Barry declared that MacMillan, guard, was the only member of the Wisconsin eleven in fair physical shape, but however much he insisted when the declaration met with a laugh, no one would believe him.
Nevertheless the situation is bad. Outside had to be taken out of the team Wednesday after a freshman had butted into the fore stomach of the Badger regular right tackle and record strong man. Boyle, the other tackle, attended the practice two days in citizen's clothes, so utterly did his lame kicking毛病. Quarterback Stoll and Captain Wiley were kept out of the hard and dangerous work against the rugged freshmen, and Fack was carried from the field Wednesday with another injury to his shoulder that has been bothering for three weeks.

These tales of hopelessness will of course be discounted at Minneapolis and Chicago, for all reported mishaps, short of broken limbs or disconnected vertebrae are ordinarily discounted especially if given out by coaches prior to big games. It seems that coaches think there is advantage in their opponents being confident of easy sailing, that games may be won by newspaper strategy, by surprising the enemy as it were, by ambush.
However, there is an exception here, for Wisconsin is undoubtedly most unprepared for the two great battles ahead, and the very fact that Minnesota has already demonstrated such wonderful prowess as was displayed against the strong Chicago eleven has led to an admission of defeat in advance to the badgers.

The return of Dr. Charles McCarthy from Japan after his trip with the Wisconsin baseball team, was attended by a rousing student reception, but "Mac" has not been received on the football field with open arms. There seems to be some reluctance to turn the team over to him, perhaps an unwillingness that he may show in the credit of making a good game against Minnesota and Chicago. Responding to Tom Barry, being the responsible head coach, is not to be expected to abdicate at this time of the year in favor of a popular volunteer coach, but the word is being passed that there are unmistakable signs of jealousy restraining "Mac" from jumping into the work on the gridiron.

Neither Minnesota nor Chicago need rely upon Wisconsin being easy picked, notwithstanding the present unfavorable outlook for the Badger spirit will develop. It is earnestly hoped, and better fortune in the training will attend the work in the remaining struggles, but the sober judgment of those who for a decade have followed the various teams is against a Badger victory.

tain Money From Banker

LEGISLATORS IN SESSION HERE

COMMITTEE OF FOUR AND STATE GEOLOGIST.

HEARD ABOUT HIGHWAYS

Also Made An Inspection of Some of Rock County's Roads Today—Will Frame New State Aid Bill.

Members of the legislative committee appointed at the last session to investigate highway conditions in Wisconsin with a view to framing a comprehensive report and state-aid bill to be presented the next time the legislature meets in special or regular session, have arrived in Janesville and were quartered at the Grand hotel this morning. The members are: Assemblyman J. R. Jones of Leoni, Monroe county, who is chairman; Assemblyman Christian C. Wollensack of Berlin, Lake county; J. A. Chinnock of Hudson, St. Croix county; O. A. Buslett of Northland, Waupesa county; State Geologist W. O. Hotelkiss and A. J. Hughes, stenographer, both of Madison.

Aims and Purposes.—said Chairman Jones, "not only to ascertain the conditions existing in the state at large and the needs arising therefrom but also to devise some economic system of applying the funds already available. Much money is being wasted annually in road-building and the legislature seeks to find a way of applying the funds which will secure the best possible results. The need of better methods is everywhere evident and we find a good healthy sentiment in favor of such improvement, wisely directed, existing in all parts of the state. A fair and sensible working plan which will bring about substantial progress is what is sought. I do not think Wisconsin will be carried away by any road-improvement mania as have some other states. It is very important that we should have better highways but there are many other fields of action which are likewise important and must not be overlooked. We have been through the northern and central section and are now completing our tour in the southern counties. Next Wednesday we shall meet the Jefferson county board. Thursday we will be in conference with the Dane county board. On Friday we shall consult with the Sauk county board at Baraboo. After that we shall rest awhile. If an extra session of the legislature is called our bill will be framed and presented at that time."

Assemblyman L. C. Whitte of Edgerton and Simon Smith of Deloit, Senator Whitehead, L. E. Gettle of Edgerton, chairman of the Rock county board of supervisors; County Road Commissioner H. L. Skaylorn; Supervisor S. S. Jones of Clinton; Fred Paske of Genoa Junction, chairman of the Walworth county board of supervisors; T. H. Fellows and E. S. Hibbard and E. O. Kull of Genoa Junction; Supervisor H. C. Trudaway of Deloit, and a number of other officials were present when the meeting was called to order this afternoon.

Rock a Banner County
Hon. J. R. Jones, the committee chairman, in his opening address, declared that judging from what had been seen this morning, Rock was the banner county in road-building; that its people were wide awake; and that up-to-date methods were in vogue. The county had men within its borders who were amply able to build roads and no importations would be necessary. The commission was here to receive advice as to what kind of a department should be created by the state; how much power should rest therein; and what would be considered a fair and just method of distributing the state aid.

Opposes Paid Commission
Chairman Gettle declared that he believed strongly in the appointment of a non-salaried commission, and thought his constituents were largely of the same opinion. There was much opposition to the creation of any more paid commissions in the state and the centralizing of power therein, and the increase this year of $5,000 in Rock county's tax apportionment, making a total of $115,000, seemed to indicate that the treasury was none too full.

Wants Engineer at Head
Chairman Fred Paske of Genoa Junction said that the people in his section would like to see a department created with a competent well-paid engineer at the head who would have the veto power on every plat in every village and town. Supervisors were swayed too much by their neighbors and the result was a Chinese puzzle of roads that should never have been allowed built.

OHIO CHARITY WORKERS

CONVENE IN CANTON TODAY

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)
Canton, O., Nov. 5.—Delegates and visitors from all parts of Ohio have gathered here to participate in the annual state conference of charities and correction, which will hold its sessions here during the next three days. Professor J. E. Hagerly of Ohio State University is the presiding officer and the scheduled speakers include Mrs. Maud Ballington Booth, Superintendent H. O. Eymann of the Massillon State hospital and, other men and women of prominence.

TWO REMARKABLE WINDOW DISPLAYS

One of pretty lace curtains and the other of the famous Whittall rugs, both of which are attracting considerable attention. Many of the curtains shown are of our own importation and are really remarkable for their beauty, high quality and low price. We are doing a good business in these goods at this time, and every purchaser comments on the above features. Included are remembrance, cable knit and novelty Swiss curtains. And every style of up to date curtain will be found in our extensive curtain stock.

The famous Whittall rugs need no praise or recommendation from us to those who are at all acquainted with this line. These Whittall rugs can be bought nowhere else in the country at prices less than we sell them for, and nowhere in this section of the country can they be bought as cheaply. All designs are copied from expensive Oriental and are of perfect color lines which will harmonize with any color scheme desired. There is no higher quality of fabric made in the carpet world and as a protection to the public, the name "Whittall" is woven on the back of every yard of carpet.

The price range, in room sizes, is from $15 to $55. The very next time you are down town, make it a point to view these beautiful showings. In the two south windows of our store, it is one of the most interesting exhibitions of rugs and curtains ever put on view in this city. If there is anyone who has a rug or curtain need at this time, we cannot urge too strongly to buy right now. November first all rug and curtain manufacturers advanced their prices. We have enough stock on hand to sell at the present prices for the balance of this year. J. M. HOSWICK & SONS.

EMINENT PAINTERS FROM ROCK COUNTY

Gaylord S. Truesdell and Theodore Robinson Wm Succesa and Fama with Brush and Palette.
"Rock county has produced two painters whose work could be hung alongside of any of these pictures," said E. E. Bardick after admiring Franz de Beul's sheep picture at the art exhibit. "Gaylord S. Truesdell, who at one time lived near Afton and was related to the Crossmans, exhibited one year in the salon at Paris and one of his paintings was sold for $3,000 to the Corcoran gallery at Washington, D. C. Theodore Robinson, who lived at Evansville and afterwards at Waukegan, Ill., was a landscape and figure painter, and in later years an impressionist, and quite an exponent of the school. One or two of his pictures are, I believe, in the Metropolitan museum at New York. A number of his canvases were destroyed in a fire at Evansville."

"Mandy Green" is coming. It is to be told in a play. A special company has been formed to present it through this region. The players have been selected with careful attention to the great dramatic possibilities of "St. Elmo." The dramatization is by Miss Grace Hayward, who converted the popular romance has a most interesting plot, the lines are well written, the characters well drawn, and the action natural and not forced. To add to the production P. C. Schmeitz has equipped it with a complete scenic environment, while the acting company is made up of the very best metropolitan talent and includes a number of well known local favorites. Adv.

"St. Elmo," the story which though written years ago, is in steady demand in all the public libraries today.

Child Prodigy

Marjorie Fleming, the playmate and friend of Sir Walter Scott, has legitimate claims to consideration as a prodigy. When she was a small child she repeated to him Constantine's speeches in King John until, by his own statement, he "swayed to and fro, sobbing his fill."

"Graustark" into a most successful play. "St. Elmo" contains many interesting characters, including "St. Elmo Murray," who confessed "he was not quite a hero, nor altogether a malicious and vindictive devil" but a man who had "hopelessly lost his character." That he had not hopelessly lost it was strikingly revealed and this is the dramatic texture which is going to make "St. Elmo" a play of interest to many people.

"St. Elmo" will be presented at the Myers theatre on Saturday, Nov. 6, matinee and evening. Adv.

KENNEDY-ELSWORTH CASES ARE SETTLED

Out of Court on a Bail of $900—All Proceedings Have Been Definitely Closed.

It will be remembered that after 12, 13, Elsworth was acquitted by a jury in circuit court of the criminal charge preferred by Mrs. Kate Kennedy, the latter brought civil action to recover $2,000 and $350 which she claimed was owing her on loans and transactions in nursery stock. The Honeywell of Kennedy & Dredrick to which most of Elsworth's business had been assigned when they furnished his bonds, was garnished and brought before Court Commissioner Honeywell to show that they had no funds and that nothing was due Mr. Elsworth. Subsequently it is alleged that they assumed a different attitude and a compromise settlement was finally reached which involved the tender of $900 and an agreement by Mr. Elsworth to replace certain shrubbery which had died on the Kennedy farm and perform certain other similar obligations. All pending actions against him were thereupon dropped.

WILL THE PEERS OR PEOPLE RULE IN ENGLAND.

(By Special Correspondent.)

House of parliament where the great budget fight is being thrashed out, in the circle above, John Damprey, whose election in parliament, is a blow at the budget.

Never for long years has England been brought face to face with such a crisis as confronts her now. The game has been thrown down and the lords and commons are at daggers drawn. The cause of all this is the Lloyd George budget, which the chancellor of the exchequer has so framed that in many more phases than one it is not alone a Liberal budget, but a Socialist one. It is the first budget to advocate the taxation of land values and an increased income tax. This in itself has been and is one of the planks in the Socialist platform. Land values, unearned increments! Why they are no dear to the hearts of the Irish home rule to P. P. O'Connor or Redmond. The man who has framed this revolutionary budget is a Welshman of the Welsh. Not many years ago he was an obscure, one might almost say, a lawyer; but his impetuous nature, his fighting genius brought him into the field of politics. He was under the limelight for the first time practically during the Boer war where he was one of the most violent of men in his advocacy of the Boer cause. In his infatuation for his brother Boer he invaded the sacred haunts of the Rt. Hon. Joseph Chamberlain, Birmingham, where if ever a man is worshipped and loved wholly and soulfully, Mr. Chamberlain is. Here he attempted to brand Mr. Chamberlain as a man who made the war for commercial gain. Needless to add he had to make an ignominious escape disguised as a policeman. I do not think any other man but Lloyd George would have dared to do it. This is the personality of the man who has framed a budget contrary to all ordinary methods of taxation. A fighter from his birth up.

The man who is the sworn foe to Lloyd George and acknowledged to be the leader of the forces of the house of lords, where the budget will meet its fate, is Lord Lansdowne, a man of brilliant talent and ancient family for he is the twenty-sixth baron of his line, whose title was created in 1181. A. D. Lord Lansdowne's record of public service reads: Governor general of Canada, 1883-88; viceroy of India 1888-93; secretary of war, 1895-1900; foreign secretary, 1900-05. There has been some talk of a rebellion against this leadership, but in the opinion of your correspondent it is merely talk circulated in Liberal ranks. If the lords reject the budget it will be because Lord Lansdowne turns his gladiatorial thumb down to show no mercy. That it is war to the knife is shown by Lloyd George's fighting speech of no surrender at Newcastle on Tyne. Here he said: "The budget must pass the lords as it stands; we will have all taxes or none." But, despite assurances such as this, and no assurance can carry a bill the pulse of the house of lords does not confirm Lloyd George's optimism. The house of lords can throw it out or lay it upon the table, stating it is too drastic a measure to pass without an appeal to the electorate of the country. This latter is most probably the course they will pursue unless the unforeseen happens. The unforeseen may be summed up in what one correspondent termed the "wild ones." Now the wild ones are the young and irresponsible lords who never trouble to take their seat except upon exceptional cases, when their temper is aroused. It is stated that the "wild ones" who number 150, and own no alliance to any party head have made a compact to swamp the budget. This they can easily do, for the Liberal peers number only sixty or so and if they do vote "en bloc" they can turn the scale whether the Tory peers want to pass it or not. It is this uncertain floating element of lordly notoriety that may drift into the house of lords on the day the budget is voted upon and upon Lloyd George's "all or nothing" and present the crisis. Should an appeal to the country be made the chief planks in the platform will be the budget, free trade and tariff reform. It was whispered that the king had been given to think that the only way the "wild ones" could be placated is to promise them that if the budget is passed the ministry will dissolve; but, unfortunately, the ministry deny this and stoutly say they will not. The house of lords could compel the parliament to dissolve by vetoing every measure they have before them. The Liberals say the lords dare not do this on their lives, for some measures include remedies for unemployment, sick insurance, pensions, etc., which the Conservative party is committed to. But again there are the "wild ones." With Winston Churchill in the thick of the fray for the Liberal party, Keir Hardie for the Socialists and Lloyd George the militant head, the quieter personality of the prime minister, Mr. Asquith, is almost obscured but it is to be hoped that he can offset some sort of compromise in the matter of a budget so strikingly revolutionary in its conception so drastic in its measures. Not all the flamboyant rhetoric can pass that budget, no threats no pleadings. In the sanctity of the house of lords flow its fate, and a few days will show whether the lords have got backbone or they are the spineless creatures of W. T. Stead's imaginations. The whole of Great Britain is in a ferment, and the issue would not appear to be the budget alone though that in undoubtedly the spark that has fired the brain; but either the peers or the people shall rule.

TERRIFIC BATTLE IS WAGED IN NICARAGUA

Rebels and Zelaya's Forces Lose Many in Sanguinary Fight at Las Lajas.

San Juan Del Sur, Nicaragua, Nov. 5.—Many men are reported to have been slain in a terrific battle between President Zelaya's troops and the revolutionists and the latter are said to have gained possession of Las Lajas, near Los Chiles. Maxim guns were used with terrific effect.

Las Lajas is one of the most important strategic points in Nicaragua and the loss of it means a severe blow to the tottering government of President Zelaya.

The revolutionary general, Castillo, is in command of the vanguard of the army of Gen. Estrada, the pretender. It is reported that Estrada is prepared to march on Managua, the capital, where Zelaya is entrenched.

Puerto Cortez, Honduras, Nov. 5.—Warned by the state department at Washington that this country must preserve absolute neutrality in the Nicaraguan revolution, Honduras ordered a tug owned by the New York Transportation Company, loaded with arms for the Nicaraguan rebels, to remain in port here. The tug's captain, Peter Olsen, was notified that if he attempted to leave he would be brought to a stop by force.

Washington, Nov. 5.—The last official report received by the state department indicates that the Nicaraguan revolutionists are daily gaining strength. They have gained practical control of half of Nicaragua in the eastern portion of the republic. Peaceful and orderly conditions prevail in the territory which they control. There is no evidence, it is claimed, to show that President Zelaya is making any movement to regain the lost territory.

WIFE FINDS HER HUSBAND DEAD

Holes in Head Point to Murder—Quarrelsome Son Disappears.

Muscantine, Ia., Nov. 5.—The lifeless body of John Degler, aged 60, was found in his residence in this city last night, by his wife, who had just returned home after a week's visit at Iowa City.

Holes in his head point to murder as no weapon was found. His son, Frank, who had quarreled violently with his father, has disappeared. The crime was committed a week ago as the supper prepared by the wife last Friday evening was untouched.

Gen. Coppinger Dead.

Washington, Nov. 5.—Gen. John J. Coppinger, famous veteran of many wars, died last night of pneumonia, at his residence in this city, aged 75 years. He married a daughter of the late James G. Blaine.

A NOVELTY IN WARFARE—MEN OF THE SPANISH TROOPS AT MELILLA USING SLINGS FOR THROWING EXPLOSIVE GRENADES.

Melilla, Oct. 2.—While the world is endeavoring to solve the problem of effective offensive warfare by airplanes, it is a strange coincidence that on the frontier of the only battlefield in the world now active, airplanes are not being used to any great extent and balloons are only being used for signaling purposes. The one thing which is being used as a novelty and is being found effective is not a new invention, but the use of the old primitive sling. This in the hand of Xenophon's conquest, where his slings were played so important a part in the warfare, today Spain is using the same sling, but with a new invention which makes it far more effective. Instead of throwing stones, as did Xenophon's warriors, small bombs especially prepared are fired by the Spanish troops against the Rifians, and in the hands of experienced slingers they have become one of the most deadly and fatal weapons of offense.

Forty men of the Chileana battalion were chosen to wield the slings, and troops to the use of the sling. They came either from the Banda mountain region or from among the hill dwellers of Toledo and Estremadura—that is to say, from districts whose people are accustomed to the use of the slings. Speaking of new weapons, it may be recalled that the Moors have been turning ginger beer and curran bottles into bombs. It would not be strange if the world powers took up this novel means of warfare and trained certain of their

MONROE MAN BADLY INJURED BY FALL

Fred Steinman, Tinner, Fell From Attic To Basement, Striking On His Head.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)
Monroe, Wis., Nov. 5.—Fred Steinman, tinner employed by Fred Lutz, fell from the top to the basement of the new residence which Willis Lutz is building on North Jackson St. He was engaged in taking measurements on the attic floor and accidentally stepped backward into an opening in the floor, falling a distance of twenty-seven feet. He received a very bad injury to his head, and the skull was cracked in two places. The skull was cracked in two places. The skull was cracked in two places.

He was hurried to the Luthnow hospital, where he received a concussion. Upon examination it was found that no bones were broken, and it is expected that unless complications set in, he will speedily recover from his injury.

Chenoweth block on the north side of the square has been sold to Jacob Hoffman for $15,000. A number of parties wanted the building. Henry Lutz, N. B. Trent and J. T. Riter making offers. The building is occupied by the Hoffman Dry Goods Co., the Sack Jewelry store and Schlessers' bookstore.

The property is a two-story brick building with a frontage of forty-four feet.

J. M. Barrett, formerly director of the Monroe Military band, has accepted an appointment under the civil service as director of the band at the Wisconsin state prison at Waupun. Mr. Barrett, until recently, held a similar position with the Delavan City band.

L. H. Ganen has purchased a 246-acre farm six and one-half miles from Rockford, of which he will take possession on March 1st. He will put his sons on the place and they will conduct a dairy farm.

The degree staff of Monroe Lodge No. 73, I. O. O. F., were at Monticello last evening where degrees were conferred on a half dozen candidates in the Monticello lodge.

The joint good roads committee of the Wisconsin legislature met here yesterday for the purpose of conferring with the county highway commissioners, county officers and farmers regarding good roads legislation, but through some mistake notice of their visit was not given in advance, consequently no meeting could be held. The committee consisted of W. O. Hotchkiss, state geologist, Assemblyman C. C. Wollensard of Berlin, Assemblyman A. O. Bucklet of Waupun, Assemblyman J. A. Chantock of St. Croix and Assemblyman J. R. Jones of Monroe county.

ELLIOTT BARNARD HAS PASSED AWAY

Highly Respected Resident of Evansville Died This Morning at His Home.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)
Evansville, Wis., Nov. 5.—Elliott D. Barnard, an old and highly respected resident of Evansville died at eight o'clock this morning at his home in this city. He had been ill for the past two months. The deceased was eighty-two years of age, and with the exception of three years spent in California, had lived in Evansville for over sixty-two years.

Mr. Barnard was born in Chautauque county, N. Y., August 27, 1827. The early years of his life were spent on his father's farm, his early education consisting in attendance at the district school. In 1847 he came west to Wisconsin, locating on a farm of forty acres west of Evansville. In 1850 when the "gold fever" struck the country, Mr. Barnard was among those to journey across the continent and returned to Rock county in 1852 and invested in 160 acres of land in the town of Center. In the fall of 1879 he engaged in the tobacco business with Thomas Hudson, but retired from the business several years ago.

He was married in March, 1850, to Miss Susan Webb. Besides the widow, seven children, Mrs. Dan Rogers, Mrs. John Sherry, and Mrs. Blanche West of Evansville, Mrs. Leonard Lees of Milwaukee, and Shasta E. and Charles D. Barnard, of Evansville, are left to mourn his loss. One brother, Theodore Barnard of Forestville, New York, also survives him.

Heart to Heart Talks.

By EDWIN A. NYE.

INDIAN ELOQUENCE.

A striking spectacle was witnessed near Lander, Wyo., a few days ago.

An aged Indian chief preached a prohibition sermon over the grave of his son. During the service scores of blanketed braves stood by in silence.

Wolf Bear, sachem of the Arapaho tribe, delivered the discourse at the grave of Leo Wolf Bear.

The young brave got drunk, lay down on the railroad track to sleep and was killed.

In the course of his pathetic address the venerable chief declared:

"The white man's whisky killed my only son."

Continuing, he said:

"You see, young men of the Arapaho, what the white man's whisky will do. I don't blame the white man for drinking his own whisky, but I hope the young men and women of my tribe will have more judgment than their paleface brethren and abstain from firewater."

Certainly, if sincerity is the essence of oratory, Wolf Bear is eloquent.

And if restrained feeling is a necessary element of a successful public speech then this father's stern reproof of his natural emotion at the grave of his son is the height of eloquent self control.

The warning sounded by the old Indian is pathetic and forceful in many ways.

The white man's whisky has been the great bane of the red man's history. The educated appetite for "firewater" has lost the American Indian many a bargain; it has caused him to commit many crimes and has been at the bottom of much of his race degeneration.

As Wolf Bear well says, the Indian is the last person who should tamper with the white man's liquor.

Moreover—

Did you note in the old man's warning his appeal to the women as well as the men of his tribe? That was no accident of speech.

As if to push the race down the moral toboggan slide more rapidly the Indian women, both young and old, are becoming slaves to an appetite for strong drink.

But here is our moral:

If the American Indian, with less worth of inherited character, less gained ascendancy of civilization, cannot afford to indulge in whisky as a beverage without bringing upon himself a certainty of vice, where shall the white man appear?

Sometimes a Hard Task.

"When a man says, 'and I know what I'm talking about,'" says the Philosopher of Polly, "the only way I can get even is by asking him to prove it."

CHALLENGE

We challenge anyone to produce a case of ECZEMA or other skin disease that DR. TAYLOR'S ECZEMA REMEDY will not cure.

TORTURED BY ULCERS!

August 25, 1909.
Gentlemen:—For two years I suffered with ECZEMA on hands, feet and legs, and could not get a pair of shoes on, as my feet and legs were completely covered with ulcers. Last April I concluded to go to the hospital, and on my way fortunately met a friend who urged me to go and see you, which I did. I bought one set of your remedy, which gave me instant relief, and after using five sets was completely cured. I state these facts trusting they may come under the notice of some one similarly afflicted, as from experience I know that there is no other remedy to cure this dreadful disease. J. WOMAN'S PAGE

The Evening Chit-Chat

BY RUTH CAMERON

YOUR child has been at school about two months now.

Have you been yet to visit the place where he spends almost as much of his waking time as he does at home?

Have you made it a point yet to meet the woman who has as much if not more to do with shaping his development as you have?

Visiting school is one of the old-fashioned customs that I think mothers have made a great mistake in dropping.

When I went to school I remember it was a regular custom for each mother to visit school at least once every term.

Do you remember when your mother used to visit school?

Remember what a half delightful and half embarrassing and wholly exciting occasion it was?

Remember how, when the little girl who sat nearest the door had answered the knock, you saw it was your mother and everyone who knew her turned and looked at you and you grew red?

And then remember how she found out where you were sitting and smiled at you and everyone who hadn't known before knew now who it was then and turned and grinned at you and you grew very much redder?

And remember how often teacher called on you and how brilliantly you read and did sums on the blackboard and answered questions in geography—because, of course, the teacher gave you all the easy ones?

And remember how fondly the teacher shook your mother's hand when she rose to go and smiled at her and held the door open for her and how funny it seemed that aristocratic, stern-faced person should be doing all that for a member of your family?

Of course you do if you went to school when I did—how many years ago I'll leave to you.

But the child of today won't have that to remember, for somehow or other mothers don't visit school nowadays—at least not near so often as they should.

And yet there is far more need of it than there used to be.

In those days each teacher was a well known personage in the community. Very often she was indigent to the soil. Anyway she was a comparatively small quantity and as such could be constantly under the eyes of the parents.

Today all that most parents—in the big cities at least—know about the teacher is her name.

Don't you think it would be a good thing for you to know a little more than that?

One mother who visited her son's school last winter found that the teacher was a fresh air blond, and had a heavy draught of air blowing across the children's backs most of the time.

The fresh air was fine, of course, but not the draught, especially for children whose mothers dressed them for the atmosphere of an ordinary school room.

Cases like that, of course, are rare. You will probably find nothing at all to disturb you, but it isn't so much to look for flaws that I want you to go.

It's more so that you will know what your child's environment is, have some definite picture when he talks about the schoolroom and his mates and his teacher, and be able to take a more intelligent interest in his affairs.

The trip will hardly take more than two or three hours at the most and I'm sure it will bring you into closer touch with your children than two or three days spent for that purpose in any other way.

— Ruth Cameron —

IN THE BOUDOIR

Neckwear—Dainty frigidities for neck all the shops. The girl who would have her child's neck full but to linger in the department devoted to her needs and carry away a number of ideas that can be easily executed by her own nimble fingers at a small cost. All the old bits of lace and net may be used. Small lengths of velvet or silk ribbon can be used. With a little industry and time she may be reasonably sure that she will be prepared at a moment's notice for any occasion so far as her neck dressing is concerned. One who has been used to have a day each fall that she called "taking stock." The contents of dresser drawers, chiffoniers and trunks were carefully gone over and all scraps that could be utilized laid aside. Then she studied materials and fashions together and spent several days making the pretty things for the neck that help the simplicity of the neck to seem festive.

There is a new steel band with support to hold the collar up which does away with the use of collar bones and sewing, which means something to the busy woman.

Riches are worn at both sides of the collar if the neck is the long one which is the present style. Long jabots of lace remind the elders of long-gone years when no toilet was complete without the lace fall down the front of the collar. Many an old lace boy will furnish these.

A pretty fashion is that of deep square tabs made of coarse net and embroidered in heavy lines in many colors and simple designs. These are attached to high neck bands of the same or of the prevailing one of the embroidery.

Fads and Fashions

New York, November 5.—It is quite evident from the models imported during the past week or two that skirts are wider, although fashion demands that they should still be straight as over. In a few of the models there has been a slight tendency to give a slight flare at the hem of trailing skirts, but there does not seem to be any general rule making this demand. Nearly all the new short skirts for walking are plaited and trimmed with bands of silk. With these skirts usually go jackets with long sleeves, which are quite appropriate in cold weather.

For smart tailor makes rough fabrics are extremely fashionable. Scotch and English suitings, such as tweeds and chevrons, wide wale serges and homespuns of endless variety are used. They are the most substantial of all cold-weather materials and not only serviceable but usually becoming. In addition to these materials there is broadcloth which is shown this season in many charming new effects. Then there are Venetian cloths, pernellas, fine serges and flannel, a very wide diagonal serge with a smooth surface. All of these come in many exquisite colors, either plain or in one or two-tone stripes. Invaluable stripes of herringbone patterns.

With these skirts and underneaths the medium length coats charming blouses are worn. Some very handsome lingerie blouses are shown, also blouses of sheer cotton crepe or delicate lace and other pretty materials. The sleeves, in many cases, have a decided elbow puff, without being very full above or below the elbow.

Procks of soft cashmere are especially suited for young girls. The texture of the material can be worked into soft girlish lines, and the clinging quality allows the slimness of a youthful figure to be retained, even though fullness be used. Gowns of cashmere for house wear have now received their charm and gives a new opportunity to introduce color effects into the costume. A band of darker, hand velvet is effective at the hem of a dress; plaques of velvet are excellent in emphasizing lines and they velvet bows are used to give contrast at the neck.

A morning gown, that promises to become very popular, is a simple one-piece dress, with buttons and pockets. It is made of dark blue serge and fasten down the front with a double row of home buttons from neck to knees. A rolling collar of embroidered lace gives comfort to the neck. One pocket on each side of the waist and one on each hip give ample opportunity to carry certain small and useful articles. A black leather belt and a soft silk tie complete the costume.

Considerable extravagance is displayed in the materials and accessories for the trimming of gowns and coats. Handsome trimming accessories of many kinds are shown in jotted bits and in lace embroidered with silk and colored beads. These have been made in boleros, tunics, stoles and cuffs and bid fair to be popular, because of the fact that by their employment a simple robe can be transformed into an elegant gown. The more beautiful these ornaments are the less decoration is required on the body of the gown. There is also the great advantage that much of this expensive material may be used over in different combinations on other dresses.

Very long coats, built after Paris models, are seen frequently on Fifth avenue and other fashionable boulevards. Many of them have large rolling collars and cuffs, and bands of fur are used to edge the skirts of the suits. For little women there are short coat suits, usually made of two materials. One model had a short-busqued coat of woolen material, which fitted the figure closely. A giraffe of supple black satin was knitted at the back. Velvet buttons, a velvet-lined collar and a black satin cravat completed the coat outfit. The skirt was in two sections, the lower part velvet, the upper part of woolen goods. Stitching marked the line where the materials were joined.

Quaint, short-length 1820 dresses are charming frocks for the debutante. Buffles of lace over net, stiffened at the edges with ribbon quiltings, reach from high to knee. Nearly all evening dresses are draped in such a way that long lines are retained, while soft fullness is kept near the lower part of the skirts. More in the soft form is exceedingly popular for long coats. It is used to cover evening gowns, is combined with fur for outer wear, and is lovely when, as an outer coat, it appears in the same color as the afternoon gown underneath.

One of the prominent Paris designers is showing wonderful fast-trimmed evening gowns. A crinkled velvet is the foundation of a dull, greenish blue costume, trimmed with narrow bands of fur and a fringe of dull silver balls. A silver metal grille encircles the waist, in which green and blue stones are set.

The turban, there can be no doubt, has come to stay, at least for the coming season. It is found in many varieties, or more charming than the other. Its smart shape is universally becoming a woman of every age, and it would be difficult to find a shape more comfortable and easy to wear. It is a splendid winter model, over which the veil may be easily adjusted on a windy day. Its jaunty and youthfulness are all the rage in Paris and here too many of them may be seen in all fashionable streets. A large fancy-headed pin or two is sometimes the only ornament, while on other turbans of that description a huge Napoleon rosette is set flat over the ears. More conventional models have an aigrette or fancy feather trimming directly in front.

Russian effects are in high favor. The huge cosack and kharas models which were brought here from Paris in the early fall continue favorites with the best-dressed women. Fur turbans are still scarce and it is predicted that they will not be as popular as last winter. This season's fur hat will be worn more with fur and fur-trimmed garments than with the tailored suits, and those seen will be of the most expensive kind.

The fashionable Russian turban is a most becoming and attractive head-covering, especially to the blond woman with fair skin and pliant features. Next to turbans in popular favor comes the helmet-hat, a big, round-crowned affair with narrow, drooping brim, rolling over so slightly at the left side. There is not much beauty in this model and most of them are positively vulgar in appearance. It is safe to say that no woman of good taste will be guilty of wearing one of these horrible and unbecoming hats. In the shops many other monstrous styles of hats are shown, which are neither picturesque nor becoming and whose only object seems to be to attract attention by their ugliness.

As a general rule small hats will be worn for general use, big hats for dressy occasions. Among the large models for receptions and theatre wear there are many handsome specimens of the picture-hat style, richly decorated with the most exquisite and soft plumes. Outright plumes are still in the limo, although they are becoming more expensive every season.

Quite handsome and becoming are the dashing tricorons which have come into favor during the past month. They come in heavier, more silk and velvet and hat's plush, and are trimmed in military fashion with metallic ribbon rosettes, cockades, sharp quills and enshrouns.

Rats Give Alarm.

Coming over on an ocean liner an old lady complained to the captain that she had seen a rat in her stateroom. "Keep it there, madam," said the captain. "Why do you like rats?" asked the old lady. "Well, madam, I've got a nest in my cabin," was the answer, "and, though I'm not superstitious, when the rats leave the ship, I do."

A Smart Hat.

A chic model is this, something on the order of the turban, but with rolled brim with black moire. The huge crown is of heavy blue velvet, while the trimming is extremely simple, consisting of two jet-headed pins passing through the brim and two long lagoon feathers on the left side. The richness and beauty of the millinery of the present season is beyond estimate. Threaded silk, silver and gold lace and many furs are used. An especially popular trimming is the dull, soft moire, used as above, and for full draped crowns.

Chiropractor to Open Branch Office in Janesville

Raymond Puddicombe, Graduate Chiropractor, to Open Offices at 414-416 Hayes Block

R. Puddicombe, who has been exceptionally successful in removing the "cause" of diseases and who already has a large patronage in Janesville, will come to this city so as to make it convenient to receive adjustment. Beginning Monday, November 8th, the office hours in Janesville will be from 8:00 a. m. to 12:00 m., every day except Sundays.

Why Suffer With Disease? The Chiropractor Knows a Way For You to be Well. Why Not Let Him Tell You?

Years of suffering with seemingly no help possible has made many people skeptical of any claim to cure disease. I do not blame them, but an earnest desire to be well should at least prompt the sufferer to make an investigation. That's what I ask you to do. Come and let me prove to you what the Chiropractic Science (pronounced Kiro-prak-tik), the new way of removing disease, will do for you.

We call it new, but it's old. It has existed since the first man needed relief from the first pain, evidence of some unnatural condition. That it is not better known today is the fault of individuals and not of the Science, for it's so plain, natural and sensible that it proves its own case.

If you suffer with any disease; if you have tried medicine, doctors and nostrums; if you feel that your case is hopeless and good health gone forever, I offer you a way to be well. What's better still, I prove my claims by my work and the ones who are today well and happy through the wonderful Chiropractic Adjustments by which they are made well are still better proof of my claims. If you are a sick man or woman come to my office and investigate my claims. It is not worth that effort to know of a certain way to be well and keep well? Consultation and examination free. Call early as time is limited.

MINISTER WRITES A VERY DARING STORY
Plot Deals with the Experiences of Beautiful Woman While Marooned on Desert Island with a Young Man.

For its next continued story the Gazette will favor its readers with Reverend Cyrus Townsend Brady's latest novel, "The Island of Regeneration."
Its author is an Episcopal minister in Kansas City and his book is nearly ready for publication. Dr.
Brady has been in the navy and later was arch-deacon of the diocese of Philadelphia, later being chaplain of the West Pennsylvania regiment during the Spanish war. He has written many interesting tales and his latest story will prove exceptionally interesting.

Rather Daring
The novel is rather daring, coming as it does from the pen of a clergyman, in that it has to do with the experiences of a beautiful woman while marooned on a desert island with a young man.

If "The Island of Regeneration," Dr.
Brady's new novel, falls short of climactic the lesson sought to be conveyed by the author, it is only because here is no opportunity to pre-vide solitude and reflection for all the Katharine Bretons of the world.

Two or three years passed on a rock in the Pacific in the company of a man who is a Hercules in strength and an Apollo in person being this independent and free-thinking young woman to a change of heart and a change of theories—religious and otherwise.

Result Not Surprising
The result is not surprising and the process is not new; the only thing that is unusual is the island. Given the Hercules-Apollo person and the right opportunity, the regeneration of Miss Brenton might have taken place in a board-house parlor.

A modern young woman, university bred, "culture to the bone," with a philosophy which excludes all religion, is cast away on an island not down on any chart. The circumstances of her being cast away provide the key to her character and the necessity for her regeneration. She has been craving about the Pacific with a young millionaire whom she has converted to her views—she thinks she has. But Valentine Langford turns out to be an unworthy pupil. He acquired more philosophy than his head could hold and thought to heaven it with a little love.

In the scene, where he discloses his real character he behaves in a disagreeable manner. Maddened by her remones and being somewhat worse for his dinner—he tells her he is a married man, points out their equivocal position before the world, and conducts himself in an ungentlemanly manner. The young woman is as strong of arm as of mind. She denies her backsliding disciple a blow that leaves him unconscious on the floor of the cabin, and with some armament for an extended stay prepares herself to make the island into a motor boat and a ship.

The island on which the young woman finally is cast is not wholly uninhabited. Years before there had been a shipwreck there and its sole survivor is a man, beautiful as the morning, but a savage. He has never seen a human being, so far as he can remember; he has lost his power of speech and roams over his little domain, subsisting on fruit. He finds the unconscious young woman on the beach and revives her, and thenceforth she has a new pupil. His understanding is that of a child and he soon becomes her willing slave.

And now begins the work of regeneration for man and woman. She comes to the island on an unexplored island, her experience has not strengthened her faith in the motives of men. Yet she is the sole teacher of this noble savage, a being who knows nothing of the world or of things higher. What shall she teach him?

The man takes the problem more or less into his own hands by falling in love with her. For a long time he combats her own feelings, but the time comes when she can no longer conceal from herself that she also is in love with him.

It would be taking an unfair advantage of Dr. Brady to disclose the outcome.

OPPOSE IDEA OF COMMISSION RULE
Communication to the Gazette in Answer to Invitation to Throw Columns Open for Discussion.
In answer to the invitation to throw the columns of the Gazette open for discussion of the pros and cons of the question of rule by commission, the following communication opposes the idea and is published as written.

Janesville, Wis., Nov. 4, 1909.
Government of municipalities by three commissioners, elected for six (6) years at a salary, for all three, of seven thousand dollars ($7,000) per annum, would not be any advantage to taxpayers that I can see.
Where can you find better or more efficient businessmen than the aldermen of this city? Take the third ward for instance, George Kimball and Harry Brown, and even the fifth ward has Sheridan and Dulin, both wise and honorable citizens. The commission council meets about twice a month. Each afternoon is paid for attending—that is, instead of about $120 per annum instead of $2,500 under the commission law.
Then long terms of office are a menace to civil liberty and progress.
Respectfully submitted by ANGIE J. KING, Atty.

Wisacres.
The wisdom of the wise is no doubt a fine thing, but evolution seems to want it tempered by the folly of fools, otherwise there wouldn't be so many of the latter. Wisdom is wise, but it is also timid; folly is foolish, but it is also bold. A thousand years ago angels would have feared to tread where now we all walk in freedom, thanks to somebody having rushed in, notwithstanding.—Puck.

CROPS WERE GOOD
THROUGHOUT STATE
Quality Was High and the Farmers
Have Reason to Rejoice Over Results of Year.

In his final Wisconsin crop report for the year, just issued by Secretary John M. True of the state board of agriculture, is shown that generally the yield has been good, the quality high, and the prices satisfactory. The report is as follows:
"The prices of some of the crops most difficult of transportation vary considerably in different parts of the state; potatoes bringing 50 cents per bushel in most markets in the southwest section of the state, while in counties where more largely grown the price is much less. The same conditions apply to a certain extent to hay and other bulky products.
"In determining the average of any given crop, due consideration is given to the importance of counties leading in production of crops considered, so that yield and price may bear a proper proportion to acreage cultivation.
"Attention is called to the high quality of most of the leading products."

Chris Wagner Paid

Town of Milton Farmer Pleaded Guilty to Complaint of Using Unsanitary Milk Cans.

On a complaint preferred by S. J.
Dufner, deputy state factory inspector, Chris Wagner of the town of Milton was haled before the municipal court yesterday afternoon to answer to a charge of handling milk in cans that were not kept in a sanitary condition. The defendant, while unwilling to admit that the cans were unsanitary on the date in question, acknowledged that he had no proof to the contrary and entered a plea of "guilty." It appears that he delivers milk at a cheese factory near his home and that the information on which the complaint was based was gathered by the inspector some time ago. Judge Field imposed a fine of $25 and costs and Mr. Dufner paid the same.

INTERESTING TALKS ON LIVE SUBJECTS
Fall Meeting of the Commercial Club
Last Evening Leads to Discussion of Local Topics.

That something will be done for the proposition of Janesville's business interests was the keynote of the initial meeting for the year of the Commercial club. The question of rule by commission, the highways, the proposed booming of the city by employing a paid secretary all came in for their share of discussion.
Some thirty-five members of the organization sat down to the supper which was served at the Myer hotel at seven o'clock last evening. At times the arguments waxed warm, but the best of feeling was demonstrated and the discussions only served to open up the way for a free expression of ideas on various subjects.
President George S. Parker gave the opening talk after the supper and laid out a plan for the coming year in a tentative way. H. H. Bliss was called upon to outline the plans of the proposed men's association who are seeking to raise five thousand dollars for the exploiting of Janesville through the medium of up-to-date methods by the employment of a paid secretary.
Mr. Bliss told the Commercial club that thus far the sum of $3,800 has been subscribed and that it is now thought certain the remaining $1,200 deemed necessary will be secured within a few days. That it was the idea to secure the services of a first-class secretary who would devote all his time to the promoting of the city's interests and watch for advantaneous business concerns which were seeking locations.
Following Mr. Bliss' talk there came a general discussion of the plans and upon motion of V. P. Richardson, it was unanimously adopted. It was the sentiment of the Commercial club that they heartily co-operate with the subscribers of the business men's fund and that when the sum needed had been subscribed that a meeting of the Commercial club be called, when plans for affecting a merger of the two interests be discussed.
Then came a discussion of general topics and V. P. Richardson took for his theme "The Commission Form of Government." In giving his views, which strongly opposed the idea, Mr.
Richardson stated that he believed that in this commission form the people of today were getting away from the idea which caused our ancestors to fight the war for independence. He did not confine his remarks to the government of cities by commission but took occasion to refer directly to affairs at Washington and in state governments.
Dr. C. G. Dwight differed with Mr.
Richardson and showed the benefits that would accrue from the adoption of the law in Janesville, using examples from other cities and what they had accomplished under the workings of similar law. Charles A. Muggleton also favored the law and talked at length on it. W. D. Holston, of the Caldwell company also had something to add on this subject and also broadened out into a general discussion of what a Commercial club is able to do for other cities.
"Janesville Streets" was the subject taken up by Mr. Joseph Weber, and while Mr. Weber stated he did not own an automobile he would be glad to see the streets of the city improved and would be glad to have the business portion paved with brick.
Frank A. Taylor also said something on the same subject and Alderman George S. Kimball spoke of the municipal affairs as did F. S. Sheldon.
The meeting was a most enjoyable one and it was eleven o'clock before an adjournment was taken. In every later at the call of the president, to take up the matter of morning with the business men interested in raising funds for booming the city in a business-like manner.

Boston's Costly Subway.
The costliest mile of underground railway in the world is said to be the new Washington street subway of Boston, which passes through the shopping district. Its construction and equipment has amounted to $10,000, 000, or about $2,000 a linear foot. The first section of Boston's modern system of rapid transit, consisting of subway tunnels, was opened about 14 years ago. This was followed by the erection a few years later of the elov-ated road. And subsequently to that the system was extended by the construction of the East Boston tunnel under the harbor. The opening of the Washington tunnel marks the latest and one of the most important extensions.

YOUR FAMILY!
Almost every man with a family has an intense desire to own a farm. He wants a place where his children can grow up strong and vigorous. He wants to be home near them during the day.
And he wants to know that he is building a bank account for them in later years. Isn't that your case?
Right here in the very heart of Wisconsin is a mighty tract of half a million acres now thrown on the market at $10 to $20 an acre. Nearby land with the same soil and climate is selling for $100 to $150 an acre. And this land must increase to those amounts soon.
Ten Years to Pay
You can own one of these splendid farms by paying one-third down and the remainder within ten years. But while you are paying, the crops will be growing and values increasing.
One man bought some of the $15 land, and after clearing and planting, is now making $1000 a year. STARK LAND CO.

BALD HEADS NOT WANTED
Baldness is Too Generally Considered a Sign of Advanced Age.
A bald-headed person does not have an equal chance with one blessed with a healthy head of hair, because baldness is too generally accepted as an indication of age. Many large corporations have established an age limit, and refuse to take men over thirty-five years of age as new employees.
Almost 65 per cent of bald-headed people may regain a good head of healthy hair if they will follow our advice and accept our offer. We have a remedy that we positively guarantee to grow hair on any head, unless the roots of the hair are entirely dead, their follicles closed, and the scalp has become glazed and shiny. We want people to try this remedy at our risk, with the distinct understanding that unless it does exactly what we claim it will, and gives satisfaction in every respect, we shall make no charge for the remedy used during the trial.
We know exactly what we are talking about, and with this offer back of our statements no one should scoff, doubt our word, or hesitate to put our remedy to an actual test.
We want every one suffering from any scalp or hair trouble, dandruff, falling hair or baldness, to try our Remedy "33" Hair Tonic. We want them to use it regularly—say "until it does not eradicate dandruff, cleanse and refresh the scalp, lighten the hair in its roots, and grow new hair, we will return every cent paid us for the remedy for the money asking. There is no obligation from the user whatever.
We are established right here where you live, and make this offer with a full understanding that our business success entirely depends upon the sort of treatment we accord our customers, and we would not dare make the above offer except that we are certain that we can substantiate it in every particular. Rexall "33" Hair

SWIFT BATTLESHIP; BIG SEA FIGHTER

NORTH DAKOTA IN TRIAL TEST PROVES BEST WARSHIP AFLOAT.

ATTAINS RECORD IN SPEED

Develops More Horsepower Than Any Other Fighting Ship in the World
—Her Maximum Speed is 22.25 Knots.

Rockland, Me., Nov. 5.—The fastest battleship afloat today is the North Dakota. She is also one of the most powerful sea fighters of the most powerful type in the world. In the first of her speed standardization tests over the Rockland measured course she developed a maximum speed of 22.25 knots and the high average of 21.823, both marks being in excess of the best performances of her sister ship the Delaware, or the star of the British navy Dreadnoughts, the Dufferin.

In attaining this surprising speed the turbine engines of the North Dakota were forced to the development of more horse power than has been reached by any battleship afloat. A maximum of 35,100-horse power was recorded, while 33,875-horse power was the mean amount. The maximum number of revolutions of the propellers was 286 a minute. It was found that 263 revolutions in this time were sufficient to maintain the contract speed of 21 knots.

Is Best Warship Afloat.
The North Dakota, by her performance, takes precedence as a general first-class battleship over any other afloat.

There is but one such battleship afloat at the present time whose attainments may exceed those of the North Dakota. This is the Neptune, just launched for the British navy. The Neptune, however, will have to attain to figures much in excess of specifications to accomplish this.

It was on the first of her runs over the measured mile course, following several preliminary rounds, that the North Dakota made her record. The tide was in her favor and this is not subtracted from the best figures. In the recorded mean, or average, however, tidal corrections are made. The five trials over the mile course were recorded as follows: 22:25, 21:48:00, 22:13, 21:50:05 and 22:13:03.

GRAIN IMPORTS UNNECESSARY.

Secretary Wilson Declares Price of Wheat Will Remain High.

Washington, Nov. 5.—The increase of population in the United States is bound to overtax the ability of the farmer to provide for its sustenance, but the day is remote, according to Secretary Wilson of the agricultural department. It will not be necessary in the immediate future to import grain for bread.

"Will American wheat go below one dollar again?" was asked.

"Probably not," replied the secretary.

The secretary showed that the value of the American farmers' output for the calendar year of 1908 aggregated seven and a quarter billion dollars.

Having in mind the higher prices of the present, the total for this year he thought to be as large or larger.

The prospect of a great increase in the production of wheat is excellent, in the opinion of Secretary Wilson.

AEROPLANES AS SAFE AS AUTOS

Orville Wright Returns from Europe Delighted with His Success.

New York, Nov. 5.—Orville Wright and his sister Katherine, who returned on the Adriatic, were met at the pier by their brother Wilbur. They left for Germany on August 10 and during his stay abroad Orville Wright made about one hundred aerial flights. "Our machine," he said, "has now reached a stage where we can go up in almost any kind of a wind. I tried it out under all sorts of weather conditions abroad and it never failed me. I took pupils on 39 flights in Germany and look for a great increase in interest in aviation there. People are beginning to find out that they are as safe in a Wright plane as in an automobile."

Suffragan Bishops Meet.

Dubuque, Ia., Nov. 5.—At a meeting of the suffragan bishops of the Dubuque archdiocese, a list of three names was prepared to be forwarded to Rome, from which will be chosen one who will be named as coadjutor to Archbishop Keane. Although the action of the bishops is secret, it is the unanimous belief of those versed in the delicate matters that Bishop J. P. Carroll of Helena, Mont., a native of Dubuque, is first choice. Bishop Keane of Cheyenne is second and Bishop Davis of Davenport is third.

HOUSE OF COMMONS VOTES FINANCE BILL

Measure Passes Its Third Reading—Result of Vote Is Greeted with Prolonged Cheers.

London, Nov. 5.—By a vote of 379 to 149 the finance bill passed its third reading in the house of commons last night.

The scene in the house was a memorable one. Seldom has there been a larger attendance of members and peers, and the diplomatic galleries were crowded to their utmost capacity. Chancellor Lloyd-George, Premier Asquith and Mr. Balfour, leader of the opposition, all spoke during the course of the evening. Excitement prevailed throughout, all present appearing to be imbued with the historic character of the occasion.

Announcement of the vote, showing the government's majority to be larger than had been expected, was greeted with prolonged ministerial cheers. The Conservatives had counted upon a score of Liberal defections, but apparently only two Liberals joined the Irish party members in abstaining from voting.

The bill will be formally passed on its first reading in the house of lords today.

WALSH'S GUARANTORS MAY LOSE

Trustee Gets All Property Pledged to Insure Interest Payments.

Chicago, Nov. 5.—All the property pledged by friends of John H. Walsh to insure payment of interest on the $7,000,000 note given by the convicted banker to the Chicago Clearing House association has been turned over to the First Trust and Savings bank. As a result the guarantors are said to be in danger of losing nearly $1,000,000—the approximate value of this property.

The property involved is ranked with the best revenue producing real estate in the city, and according to the trustees will provide the annual interest of $284,872 on the Walsh note.

As long as this interest is forthcoming Walsh will not be pushed and the property will be guarded by the trustees. If Walsh should be unable to liquidate his indebtedness the security must be sacrificed by his friends.

The property was surrendered to avoid a confession of judgment in accordance with the terms of the agreement.

Declarations that the attitude of the United States circuit court of appeals in denying a retrial of the Walsh case is a mistaken one and based upon a misconception are contained in the petition for a rehearing of the appeal.

The government will be allowed 20 days to file an answer. It is said District Attorney Sims will not take advantage of the time allowance, but will file his reply within a few days to expedite the case.

EXONERATES SCIENTIST LEADER

Charges Against Mrs. Stetson Are Dismissed—Her Accusers Conceded.

New York, Nov. 5.—The board of inquiry appointed by the First Church of Christ, Scientist, to investigate the charges preferred against Mrs. August Stetson, for many years first reader of the church, reported to a congregation of 2,000 and exonerated Mrs. Stetson on all of the 23 charges preferred against her.

This action by the board of inquiry of the New York church is practically a challenge to the mother church in Boston and the challenge was emphasized by the further action of the board in censuring those that preferred the charges against Mrs. Stetson.

The members of the board of inquiry were unanimous in exonerating their leader. They dismissed as unfounded the charge of "mental malpractice" and they found that the charge that Mrs. Stetson had endeavored to make her church the mother church and put it above the Boston mother church was unsubstantiated.

Attorney Faces Serious Charge.

Patton demanded his resignation with which demand Shoneman promptly complied.

WAS ARRESTED FOR FRAUD

MARTIN KAUFMAN OF NEW YORK IS HELD ON SWINDLING CHARGE.

WAS WORTHY BUSINESS MAN

Wife Unwittingly Gives Clue to His Whereabouts by Dropping Picture of a Vienna Hotel—Frauds Amount to $107,000.

Berlin, Nov. 5.—Charged with perpetrating frauds to the amount of $107,000 in connection with the Coto Goods Converters' Company of New York, Martin Kaufman of that city was arrested by former United States Post Office Inspector Henry C. Hill.

The case has many ramifications. Kaufman was for a long time considered one of the most worthy business men of New York. His partner, M. A. Isaac, had such implicit confidence in Kaufman's integrity that, according to Hill, he induced a number of his friends to take shares in the business.

Books Reveal Big Fraud.

The business proceeded satisfactorily for six months, until Hill asked a customer to settle an outstanding account which the customer declared was not due. An investigation of the company's accounts followed and resulted in the discovery of a number of falsified entries amounting to $107,000. Kaufman, in the meantime, had disappeared.

Some of the shareholders, who were practically bankrupted, held Isaac morally responsible, but he gave his check for the total amount missing. The New York Credit Men's association took up the matter and had Kaufman indicted.

Photograph Leads to Arrest.
It was known that Kaufman had sailed for Europe, but no clue to his whereabouts could be found until his wife, who is in business in Lawrence, Mass., dropped a paper containing a photograph of a hotel. Neither the photograph of the hotel nor the name of the city was mentioned, but a window was marked and above it were the words, "This is my room," in Kaufman's handwriting.

After many inquiries the hotel was located in Vienna, where Kaufman resided under the name of Marvin Kent.

Baby's Cries Save 18 Lives.

Milwaukee, Nov. 5.—The cries of a 15-month-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Morris Cohen probably saved 18 persons from death in a fire which damaged the building in which they live. While every one else in the crowded two-story frame building was asleep, the child's mother was awakened by feeling the little one's hands pulling at her arms and its screams of terror.

She awakened her husband and they seized their three children and carried them from the burning building. They then aroused the other occupants of the smoke-filled building.

ALLEGED BLACKMAIL IS CAUSE OF EMBEZZLEMENT

Former Treasurer of Big Four Declare Has Paid Blackmailers $75,000 in Three Years.

Cincinnati, Nov. 5.—C. L. Warriner, the deposed local treasurer of the "Big Four" railroad, has, it is alleged, confessed to his wife and officials of the road that the shortage in his accounts, variously estimated at from $50,000 to $100,000, was due to his paying blackmail to a man and woman for the past three years.

Warriner is said to have stated that he paid the blackmailers in all $75,000. The man to whom this money was given is said to have been an old employee of the Big Four, and to have had knowledge of an earlier shortage in Warriner's accounts. For keeping silent about this shortage he demanded and received from Warriner large sums.

He is said to live in Chicago. Steps will be taken to arrest him.

The woman in the case left Cincinnati shortly before Warriner arrived here. She is under surveillance and may be arrested at any time.

NEGROES ATTACK WHITE WOMAN

One Is Shot, Two Others Are In Danger of Lynching.

Onaway, W. Va., Nov. 5.—Every precaution is being taken to prevent the lynching of two negroes under arrest here in connection with a heinous attack made on Mrs. Albert Lockhold, a white woman, by three negroes, one of whom was run down by an infuriated crowd and killed with shot.

Word from the Lockhold home at Exchange, near here, is to the effect that Mrs. Lockhold will recover.

The attack on Mrs. Lockhold was most brutal. After breaking into the house the three negroes tied the husband and foot and before his eyes ill-treated his wife. Soon after the negroes departed Lockhold freed himself and summoned aid among the farmers. One of the men, Charles Lewis, was traced to a small store in the vicinity of the Lockhold home and shot dead as he reached into his pocket for a weapon. Several hours later the men now under arrest were captured.

FORTY YEARS AGO

Janesville Daily Gazette, November 5, 1869.—The Methodist Church, the Methodist Society are not only going to secure to themselves one of the neatest and most comfortable places of worship in the city, but their Court street church, when finished, will be a substantial contribution to the architectural beauty of the city and an evidence of the good taste of the large and flourishing denomination by whose liberality it has been erected.

Dramatic.—Considering the disagreeable evening the attendance at the benefit entertainment of Mr. Little, last evening was good. Those who were present enjoyed it greatly and pronounced the acting most excellent. In every place which is brought out the superiority of this company is apparent. Tonight the play is "Nun-

Engagements," to conclude with "Perfection."

Accident.—A lad at the High School named Lorenzo Dudley, while engaged yesterday in sliding down the amusements, fell and broke both arms.

Personal.—Wm. H. Hawes, Esq., left yesterday for the east. Mr. C. E. Woodward, who went east with the remains of his brother, returned to this city yesterday.

Happy Days. Harold—"I know that I'm not worthy of you, darling. The Fair One—"Remember that, Harold, and my marriage life is sure to be happy."

The Optimist's Corner

Daily Helps to Health and Happiness

By GEORGE F. DUTLER, A. M., M. D.

Mention good living and nine out of every ten people will take it for granted that you mean good food, and perhaps a great deal more of it than is necessary. But that is not good living. Good living is an art, and there are but few who get the best out of life. One may have money and still lack the real refinements of life. The real object and end of life cannot always be attained by poverty, either. It depends largely upon the character and the conscience of the individual. Good living does not consist in a large variety of dishes poorly cooked, but a few wholesome dishes, well cooked. It does not mean a large house, poorly kept, but a house well kept; not plenty of clothes, gorgeous and out of date, but a few clothes, modern and kept in order. The same rule will apply to books collected under various circumstances to a library reflecting one's habits and tastes. These things with a few friends of like habits and tastes to while away a social hour, go far towards realizing in ourselves the comfort and joy of living, and in shaping the individual character. But there is the ethical which must be considered. It is the ideal which speaks more for the higher life than for anything else.

The only cereal food made in Biscuit form. Try it for breakfast with milk or cream. Deliciously nourishing and satisfying.

Electric Incubators.

Mr. W. M. Eaton of the Storrs Agricultural Experiment station calls attention to an improvement in the construction of electrically heated incubators, says Youth's Companion. Copper, which, with the exception of silver, is the best heat conductor known, is universally employed in constructing incubators for laboratory use, but the insulation provided is imperfect. With such materials as asbestos, hair felt, wood and cork-board, used in combination, a fire-proof incubator can be constructed, with almost perfect insulation and practically indestructible, at about one-quarter of the cost of an ordinary copper incubator. An incubator constructed by Mr. Eaton on this principle costs less than a dollar a year heated at a constant temperature of 37 deg. Centigrade.

At the North Pole. Not the least wonder (to the imagination) of the north pole is the drawing together there of the great provinces of the world. Dwarfed, narrowed, dwindled, shrunk, as it were, a little slender Asia, a minute Europe, a little stealthy America most astonished. That foot of water in America, this European, that tiny block of ice in Asia. Nay, you may put a finger upon each, and send your thoughts in three directions southward—southward every way—along those small channels under your hand to the several countries, the separated races, the strange, the alien, the multi-colored nations.

In the Hotel Kitchen. "One hears a lot about the fine view from the roof of the Hotel Astor," said the head chef of the hotel the other day. "Well, customers are not satisfied with scenery, I can tell you, and the men in the kitchen do not know anything about the sight of the Hudson river or the lights of Broadway. There are 110 cooks under me. We prepare every day 100 ducklings, 200 chickens, 300 squabs and 600 lobsters. The lobster never loses its popularity in New York, winter or summer. We have 500 different varieties of cold dishes to serve on different days from the cold buffet. This makes the kitchen very busy place."
